BLACK PANTHER IS AGAIN VICTORIOUS ON CINDER PATH

Scores Second Victory of Season at Expense of R. P. I.

LAST EVENT GIVES MARGIN OF VICTORY

Capt. Cass Smashes Potratz' College Record in the Discus Throw

Once again the Black Panther sprinters and field men were victorious when they defeated the R. P. I. track men in the second dual meet of the season on Porter Field last Saturday by a score of 72 to 63. The points were almost evenly divided until the last two events, the broad jump and the 220 yard dash, when Middlebury was leading 56 to 52. Then came the 220 yard dash, which proved the deciding race of the meet as Happ won first and Firman won second, giving the Blue and White a lead of eight extra points and clinching the meet for Middlebury. Whitney and McCann were tied for second place in the broad jump, the last event, which gave Middlebury a total of 72 points and Rensselaer 63. "Bill" Donald ran a pretty race in the 880 yard dash.

Captain Cass broke the college record for the discus throw with a heave of 123 feet 8 3-4 inches, winning first place. In the 100 yard dash Middlebury captured all three places with Happ first, Firman second and Carboy third. Happ was high point man with a total of ten points. Squires of R. P. I. starred in the field events with a total of nine points. In the high jump Squires, Walker and Roberts were all tied for first place at 5 feet 5 inches. Whitney and Schaeffer placed first and second respectively in the high hurdles and in the 220 low hurdles Schaeffer placed first and Hollquist second, which gave Middlebury a substantial lead at the start. The showing made in these first two meets makes the outlook for the Amherst meet on Friday much brighter, for Amherst was defeated by Williams on the same day that Middlebury triumphed over R. P. I.

Summary of events:

1 mile run—1st, Sheets, R. P. I.; second, Castle, R. P. I.; 3rd, Lathrop, M; Time: 4:45 1-2.

440 yard dash—1st, Fear, R. P. I.; 2nd, Donald, M; 3rd, Watson, M; Time 53 9-10.

Who was Elected Yesterday as President of the Student Government Association for 1925-1926

COLLEGE ACCLAIMS JUNIOR WEEK TO BE COMPLETE SUCCESS

Two Athletic Victories, Concert and Intra-Mural Contests Please Visitors

With a fine spirit of cooperation from everyone except perhaps the weather man, Middlebury's 1926 Junior Week program proved to be an unprecedented success, and, excluding the pig, who refused to function properly for the greased pig contest, everyone did his utmost to bring about a week-end of social and athletic events which will always stand as an example upon which future Junior Week committees may safely base their plans.

Although Middlebury failed to score a victory in either of the baseball games with Vermont during the week, the Blue team easily defeated the Cadets from Northfield by a 5 to 1 score. The track team under Coach Brown scored its second victory of the season by defeating the strong R. P. I. team 72 to 63, and Captain Cass broke the College discus record by heaving the plate 123 feet 8 ¾ inches. The tennis match with Vermont which was scheduled for Saturday morning was cancelled because of rain, but the other events took place as announced on the program.

The College Glee Club gave its first program before a Middlebury audience this season Thursday evening in Mead Memorial Chapel, and gave a very creditable exhibition of the constant training which they have been receiving under the able direction of Professor Larsen. The program was composed of many very well-known selections and although the audience was very appreciative, the club deserved a much larger attendance.

The greased pig contest was held on Porter Field Friday afternoon, but the poor pig was paralyzed either with fear or with cold, for he refused to do anything but examine the ground about him, allowing the first comer to capture and hold him. The Freshmen captured the porker at the first trial, but the Sophomores through the alibi that they did not hear the signal to start, secured another attempt, and fell on the innocent pig by ranging themselves five yards nearer him than the Frosh.

The inter-fraternity sing was held on the steps of Mead Memorial Chapel Saturday night after the Junior play. Each fraternity sang two songs, the entire body joining at the end in the Alma Mater.

CLARA PARK '26 IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT

To Head Student Government Association of the Coming Year

ANNUAL ELECTION OF WOMEN'S BODY

Elizabeth Howard Named Vice President and Eleanor Manley, Sec'y

Clara E. Park '26 was elected president of the Student Government Association at the annual election held yesterday. Other officers elected for the coming year include:

Elizabeth Howard '26, vice president; Eleanor Manley '27, secretary; Elizabeth Kelley '26, treasurer; Ruth Jackson '26, fire chief.

Miss Park is a member of Theta Chi Epsilon and has served as secretary of Student Government and vice president of the Women's Athletic Association. Miss Park has attended Student Government conferences at Vassar and the University of Vermont and thus brings to her new position an understanding of the problems to be faced.

The vice president, Miss Howard, a member of Pi Beta Phi, also attended the recent convention at U. V. M. and has been secretary of the present Junior class and active on the CAMPUS and Kaleidoscope boards.

Eleanor Manley, secretary, is a member of Pi Beta Phi, a reporter on the CAMPUS and organizations editor of the 1927 Kaleidoscope.

Elizabeth Kelley, treasurer, belongs to Delta Omega Delta and is an active member of the Glee Club, French Club, Maqua Club and the Young Women's Christian Association. She was also assistant editor of the 1926 Kaleidoscope.

Ruth Jackson, Sigma Kappa, who holds the unique office of fire chief, has taken part in women's athletics and in the work of various committees of Y. W. and Student Government.

PAPKE'S TEAM GOES TO NORWICH TODAY

Out For Another Victory in State Series; To Meet St. Lawrence On Home Field Monday

Middlebury plays but one baseball game this week and this one away from home. The team left this morning to go to Northfield to take on the Norwich Cadets. In all likelihood Jack Witham will occupy the mound for it was thru his beautiful twirling that the varsity turned back the Cadets during Junior Week. The game marks Middlebury's fourth attempt in the state series and while the Blue is pretty definitely out of the running there still remains a good chance for second.

Next Monday afternoon the team will play its third home game when Middlebury meets St. Lawrence. This should turn into a win for the team as the visitors have not shown anything to startle. Who will work on the mound seems a problem but Whittemore may be given a chance to start his first game of the year.

Organ Recital Postponed

The organ recital which was to have been given in the Mead Chapel this evening by Rosalind Higgins '25, has been indefinitely postponed since Miss Higgins has been called to her home on account of sickness. The recital will be given later in the month however, and at the same time the Women' Glee Club will again appear before the music-lovers of Middlebury.

VERMONT TWICE HANDS DEFEAT TO BLUE; WITHAM STARS IN BOX AS NINE TRIMS NORWICH CADETS 5-1 IN FRIDAY'S GAME

Towne Does Heavy Duty in Twice Taking Mound Against Vermont

TAYLOR AND BURNS BAFFLE BATTERS

Papke and Banks Swat Ball For Long Hits; Conley Shines Afield

The Black Panther nine, facing three difficult State Series games in three consecutive days, found the strain of battle to be too severe and was twice forced to taste defeat at the hands of the University of Vermont, avenging itself only in part by handing the Norwich Cadets a drubbing on Friday before a large Junior Week audience. The results of the week-end contests make it certain that Middlebury will again have to be content with nothing better than second place in the state baseball series. In each of the two games with Vermont, the one on Thursday opening the local baseball season and that on Saturday marking the first of the year at Centennial Field, the upstaters emerged triumphant with a total of seven runs, while in the first game Taylor allowed the Blue batters a lone tally and in Saturday's contest Burns handed out a whitewash defeat. Towne pitched both games for Middlebury.

In the intervening contest on Friday, Captain Papke's men found their batting eye and pounded out five runs while Witham was holding Norwich to a single score.

Vermont Wins First Game

The University of Vermont, led by Taylor who allowed Middlebury only five hits and one run and who sewed up his own game with a two-bagger won out over Middlebury 7 to 1 Thursday in the first game of the State Series, played on Porter Field before a large Junior Week audience. The game was played in a cold wind which hindered the players of both teams somewhat but with the exception of the sixth inning when the Vermont batters let loose a barrage of hits and runs, the contest was close and well-played throughout.

Towne, pitching for Middlebury, did not seem to have much on the ball and was unable to hold the Green and Gold in check. Vermont drew first blood in the second when Patrick singled, stole second and came home on Laubauch's safe hit. Middlebury came back in its half of the inning with three singles, bringing in Klevenow with the team's lone tally. Taylor stopped the rally when he strudk out Captain Papke.

Vermont tallied again in the fourth on a couple of scratch hits and some slow fielding. In the sixth Burlington batters let loose and a pass, an error and five hits, including doubles by Taylor, Burns and Bradley brought five men across the home plate. This settled the game for neither side threatened seriously to score after that time.

Taylor, besides allowing only five hits struck out seven men. Patrick of Vermont and Captain Papke of Middlebury were the batting stars of the day.

DEBATERS GIVEN BIG BANQUET AT EAST MIDDLEBURY

Abundance of Food and of Speech-Making at the Forensic Spread

Speeches, speeches and more speeches made up the program last night following the annual banquet tendered the debating squad by the college. The affair was held at the East Middlebury Community House, eleven undergraduates and seven faculty members partaking of the excellent chicken pie supper which was served by the ladies of the Community Club. As is the custom at the debating banquets which are held each year after the close of the season, each person present was called upon for a speech. Professor Wilfred E. Davison, debating coach, served as toastmaster.

The principal matters of import which were discussed included debating in the women's college, intra-mural debating and the extemporaneous system of delivery. The possibility of arousing interest in debating among the women and of organizing a co-ed's debating team was first suggested by Hawthorne '26, and called forth favorable comment from both students and faculty. Reighard '27, suggested further activity in the intra-mural debating while Hade '26, gave definite suggestions as to how the Wetherell Debating club could help to foster interest in the work. The system of extemporaneous delivery in debating which has proven so successful in the past two years evoked favorable comment from all of the speakers. Faculty members who were present included President Paul D. Moody and Professors C. F. Abbott, A. M. Kline, L. I. Bonney, V. C. Herrington, J. S. Kingsley and W. E. Davison.

Last night's banquet marked the disbanding of one of the most successful debating squads that Middlebury has ever had. Undertaking the longest schedule ever attempted by a Middlebury team, the Blue was successful in four of the eight debates and lost the others only after putting up the stiffest of arguments.

Graduation will seriously weaken the team for next year however. Anderson, Cooley, Leary, Leiby, Chapin, Carlson and Ely are to receive their diplomas in June and only Hawthorne '26, Reighard '27, Hade '26 and Jackson '26 will be left to compose the nucleus of next year's squad. It is believed however that with the addition of a few members of the present freshman and sophomore classes to the squad, it may be possible to produce another team which will equal the record made by one of this year.

The Neutrals won the interfraternity relay race. Their team was made up of Chandler, Penn, Sheldon and Tauten.

Where Are We Drifting?

How many undergraduates have a definite idea of what they are going to do upon their graduation from college? We have no figures upon which to base our assumption but we feel sure that a survey of the college would show that a large percentage of the students have either a very hazy idea or else no conception at all of what their life work is to be. Too many of us are just drifting. College is an especially nice place to drift along—one can have a mighty pleasant time doing it. But as long as a person is not heading for any place in particular he is not likely to reach a destination very soon.

We can get a great deal more out of college if we have a definite idea of what we want to do after graduation. And incidentally, we can be much better fitted to handle our life work when we come to it if we have some definite preparation for it.

Now it is not an easy task to pin one's self down to a certain vocation for one's life work. The inclination to wait and look them all over is a strong one. But usually this period of waiting is of no definite avail. In the end most people just happen to strike some vocation and stick to it for the rest of their lives. Why not consider all the possibilities carefully right now, pick the line that seems best and start working for it? One can work much better when there is a definite objective in the distance.

We do not mean that every student upon entering college should pick at random some vocation and decide that that is to be his life's work. But every student can at least be considering the problem seriously and with the aid of the lecturers that we have at Middlebury it should not take long to decide. It is at least better to consider the matter seriously than to put it off for four years and then to take any position that chance may offer. Let's think it over!

The Golden Fleece

Jason, son of Aeson, hero of ancient Greece, was forced to make a long, perilous journey in search of the golden fleece before he could receive his rightful inheritance. With fifty companions and the help of a sorceress princess he overcame all obstacles and returned triumphant with the prize.

Education is a search for the golden fleece, and we are the modern Argonauts. To obtain and enjoy the richest of all our inheritance, life, we must first seek and find the finest golden fleece—character. As in the case of Jason's quest, this cannot be obtained without overcoming many obstacles and enduring supreme hardships. Education means something more than the mere acquisition of knowledge. Knowledge, of course is indispensible when combined with other things but alone it does not do much to make a well-rounded life. Broadened by character and experience, knowledge is education and life.

Character building is a long, hard process. No worthwhile gain is ever achieved without a struggle. The hard things of life are the builders and tests of character. Those who are never faced with responsibility and great obstacles, those for whom everything is done, never become strong men and women mentally or spiritually. Too often we, in our search for the golden fleece, are too willing to "let George do it." We sacrifice a rung in our ladder of character building for mere comfort of the moment. In so doing we weaken ourselves and our chances for future growth. If Jason had hesitated at the call of the Sirens his trip, his struggles would have been in vain. Likewise if we stop to listen to the Siren calls of procrastination and too much play we fail in our quest for the fleece. Only by bravely facing and mastering each obstacle in the path can we hope at last to gain that prize which marks us as men and women whose lives are full and worthwhile. Jason could not occupy the throne which was rightfully his without the golden fleece; we cannot live the lives which are our just inheritance without character, the golden fleece of education.

PROHIBITION DAYS

Harmful effects of advertising brought forth by certain Middlebury professor who states: "I refuse to drink Moxie. I shall drink what I please."

We hope he is still able to get it.

You can't be polite to anyone these days on the Campus without his asking, "What office are you running for?"

"OVER THE BOUNDING MAIN"

Evidently the motto "See America First" does not mean much to the Bates College debating team who are soon to sail for England where they will meet several English Universities. The finances of the trip were provided by popular subscription. More than a sufficient amount of money was raised in the first attempt.

It has been unofficially reported that the only Englishman who belonged to the English Club has resigned. He states as his reason that he does not understand the language, "as she is spoke".

The program at the movies this week reminds one of the variability of this famous Vermont climate. Tonight the feature is "Ice Bound" while tomorrow evening Murray's standard legitimate attractions will attempt to thaw us out with "Hot Water".

WHY BOTHER THEN?

A heading in a certain country newspaper reads: "Two-thirds of the People Die Without Having Been Married."

For about a third of a century, the classic figure of Saint Gauden's Diana with her picturesque bow and arrow, has ornamented the horizon from her lofty perch atop the Moorish tower of Madison Square Garden. Industry has decreed that this famous building must give way to a more modern structure. For a time the disposal of Diana was a vexing problem but it has been happily solved. The tower will be carefuly taken down and rebuilt on the campus of New York University. Here the goddess of the hunt will gaze over the campus and who knows but what some worthy tradition may be born therewith?

"WHAT'S WRONG WITH OUR GIRLS"?

The 200 boys of a certain Michigan High School have been expelled because they persist in coming to school with no ties, and collars open at the neck. They are willing to revert to the cravat when the girls of the school give up the fad of rolled stockings.

Those New Skyscraper Ships. N'est-ce pas? The Boston Evening Transcript tells of a new steamer for the Hudson River Day Line which is 19 feet long and carries 1200 people.

MIDD. 1—NORWICH 0

An added feature to the Norwich Junior week was a man hunt. The soldiers filtered thru the mountain forests in pursuit of Woodward but failed to secure the bacon. Without even moving out of the town, however, the Middlebury students managed to secure the prize. Another Blue and White victory over Norwich.

PHILIP SPACE.

It is reported that a certain faculty member fell asleep at Prom the other night. That's nothing; the whole Junior Class has been sleeping ever since.

Campus Represented At E. I. N. A. Conference

"Princetonian" Plays Host to Leading College Papers of The East

Forty editors and managers representing twenty of the leading college newspapers of the East were the guests of the Daily Princetonian at the annual conference of the Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association held at Princton last Friday and Saturday. In separate conferences and committee meetings the editorial and business policies of the papers were discussed Friday afternoon while Saturday morning the conference, meeting as a whole, adopted certain resolutions for the guidance of the association for the coming year.

E. J. Duffy, editor of the "Dartmouth" was elected president of the organization for the coming year while R. A. Eichelberger, editor of the "Pennsylvanian" was named vice president and J. S. Barrett of Dartmouth, secretary. It was voted that the conference should meet at Dartmouth next year.

The Middlebury CAMPUS was represented at the Princeton conference by James S. Jackson '26, editor, and E. Milton Egan '26, advertising manager. Other papers which were represented were Amherst Student, the Brown Herald, the Colgate Maroon, the Columbia Spectator, the Cornel Graphic, the Cornell Sun, the Dartmouth, the Harvard Crimson, the Boston College Heights, the McGill Daily, the Pennsylvanian, the Penn State Collegian, the Princetonian, the Tech of M. I. T., the Tech of Northeastern, the Wesleyan Argus, the Williams Record, the Yale News, and the Holy Cross Tomahawk.

The tennis team will again attempt to open their season when Worcester visits here on Saturday. The team is working out daily under the direction of Professor Charles A. Adams. Five letter men are on the squad besides much promising new material.

COMMENCEMENT NOTES

'82—Carrol B. Ross: "It's impossible for me to plan this early, but of course I'm always there some of the time."

'20—Asked when he would arrive at Commencement, Kech Parker states, "I'm just coming, and that's all I know about it."

'22—Rog Hall and Harold Stevens are planning to motor back to Commencement from the Maine Woods.

Among those who will be back with their classes are: Lawrence Phelps, '75; Edgar R. Brown, '93; J. A. Cadwell, '97; J. A. Peck, '98; F. A. Simmons, and P. Wilds, '02; S. H. Lane, '05; M. G. Hubbard, '13; C. W. Dodge, '15; E. S. Huntley, '16, and A. W. Furber, '20.

The Trustees Meeting will be held at 2:00 p. m., Saturday, June 13, in the Treasurer's office.

A service commemorative of the 125 years of Middlebury's existence will be held at 4:30 p. m., Sunday, June 14, in the Mead Memorial chopel. Professor Charles Baker Wright will give the address.

Very impressive was the annual Junior Week Inter-sorority Sing held on the front steps of Pearson's Hall last Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Each sorority sang two songs and at the conclusion of the singing those present joined in singing the "Alma Mater" before they dispersed.

EXETER PRINCIPAL SPEAKS AT VESPERS

Says All Great Men Must Have Singleness of Purpose

The vesper service Sunday was conducted by Mr. Lewis Perry of Exeter Academy. He said that the great things in this world have been done by dreamers who with singleness of purpose, have struggled to make their dreams come true. However, just having a purpose does not mean that the accomplished end is going to be great. The purpose must be a worthy one and the dream worth being realized.

"We must be willing to fight against opposition. Do not be like the tramp who traveled not with the idea of getting somewhere but merely to keep the wind at his back."

Do not think that a college graduate has a great advantage over the rest of the world. There are so many college graduates that competition is great. Only by maximum effort do we succeed, and we get only what we deserve.

He concluded by saying that we should live in the active voice, present tense, indicative mood and with facts before us, work toward a worthy goal.

GAY JUNIOR WEEK CROWD ENJOYS PROM

Excellent Music, Wonderful Decorations and "Dinty" Moore's Bar Contribute to Success of Big Dance

The climax of Junior Week was reached Friday evening when a throng of dance lovers gathered at the McCullough Gymnasium to enjoy the annual Junior Promenade. Shortly after 8 o'clock the promenade commenced, led by Alfred Knowles, President of the class of 1926.

The gym was decorated in the class colors, green and white. Evergreen banked the walls and streamers went out from a huge "Middlebury" center piece in all directions. Each corner bore the numerals of one of the four classes. Hanging shades of green and white crepe paper covered the lights and bridge lamps served their purpose at intervals along the walls. The stage was given over to a soda fountain where one could find "Everything to Drink but Water", and "Highballs a la Moore" were much in evidence.

The music furnished by the Morey Pearl Orchestra, of Boston, was all that had been expected and was considered one of the best orchestras that has played here.

A flash light picture of all the dancers was taken at the foot of the stage and during the evening the first copy of the 1926 Kaleidoscope was presented to President Moody by Mr. Hawthorne and Mr. Knowles.

After intermission the announcement was made that Colonel Paul "Whoozis" Ward had won in the recent campaign for the presidency of the college, and the following dance was one of much merriment in honor of the new president.

The Patrons and Patronesses of the evening were President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Professor and Mrs. Julius S. Kingsley, Professor and Mrs. Arthur M. Brown, Miss Ruth W. Temple, and Mrs. Maud O. Mason.

BOARDMAN PEACE PRIZE

It has been called to the attention of the Juniors that the competition for the Deacon Boardman peace prize is to close on May 20. All wishing to compete for this prize should submit their essays to Professor Charles F. Abbott before that time. Essays should be at least 2,000 words in length and should be signed by a pseudonym while the correct name of the author along with the pseudonym should be placed in a separate sealed envelope. This prize of thirty dollars is awarded annually to the member of the Junior Class submitting the best essay in favor of peace.

Witham Turns Back Cadets

Jack Witham, backed by eight men who played heads-up ball every bit of the way, mastered Norwich University 5 to 1 on Porter Field Friday afternoon in the second baseball game of the Junior Week program. Jack allowed but six scattered bingles, struck out five men at points where it counted, and held the visitors helpless while his mates walloped Williams' delivery for eight safe slaps and four earned runs.

In spite of the cold weather and light drizzle that fell once or twice, Middlebury's men were on their toes all the time, and on bases they ran riot. Mike Papke stole three bases, going to second once to complete a double-steal while Jack Witham went to third, and taking third at another time with no other runner to detract attention.

Don Banks cuffed the only extra-sack hit of the day, pushing a double into right field to score two runners in the seventh inning. Jack Conley at third did not receive opportunities to make some of the sensational catches he collected Thursday, but he took part in two assists that were almost impossible of execution.

Witham did not stop at merely pitching a good game, however; it was he who led the hitting with two of three tries.

Two yearlings who were given a chance to get into the fray made good impressions; March, batting for Witham in the eighth, planted a long drive in center field for a perfectly safe hit. And Hal Whittemore, who went to the mound in the first of the ninth to show his stuff, spread all of it on the table by striking out the first man facing him and worrying the others until his fielders could put them out.

The band started playing for Midd in the first. Mike Papke led with a pass Whitney sacrificed him down, and Joe Novotny singled to place him on third from which position he scored easily when Conley drove a hit into center. Klevenow flied out to Clark, the latter's throw back to the diamond caught Conley off first.

In the second Norwich was clamoring for a run, but despite two singles, the best Williams could do was hit into a force play.

Midd tallied again in the fifth. Witham hit, Papke hit, and they scurried along a peg in a double-steal. Whitney's sacrifice fly to center scored Jack. Novotny went out on strikes and Conley was down Garrity to Crowley.

In the first of the seventh Norwich again rolled a couple of singles; but again they were scattered, and Witham struck out Williams for a third victim. With the last of that round, however,

DRAMA REVIEW

"Three Live Ghosts"

"Three Live Ghosts" is an exciting story of unmistaken, or unknown, identity, of love, and of intrigue. Three men, one an American, are reported dead in battle, but subsequently return. What happens is the play. It gives an opportunity for excellent character work and a certain amount of mystery; and moves with great speed and gusto until the end, which is weak and undramatic. The authors mistook the value of surprise in drama. It would have been better had the audience known earlier the facts about Spoofy and Foster that were revealed at the end. The play furnished an excellent evening's entretainment, but as a play did not come up to the standard of former Junior Plays. It is a pleasure to say that this was not the fault either of the directing or of the acting, but seemed in some way to be entirely within the play itself.

The major parts were most effectively presented. Miss Prentice did an excellent piece of work as Mrs. Gubbins. I do not see how she could have bettered it. Mr. Lebowitz gave another convincing example of his versatility in character parts, as Jimmie Gubbins. Mr. Whitney's presentation of the American, William Foster, was consistent and clear cut. It was a pleasure to see Mr. Whitney in a distinctly different role from those which he has so successfully carried heretofore. Miss Hughes, as Peggy Woofers, was also successful in her characterization. Miss Frost, as Rose Gordon, thoroughly realized the possibilities in the character. It called for precisely the subdued yet forceful delineation which she gave it. Mr. Herrington made an excellent Spoofy. That insane laugh rings yet in my ears. He managed with especial skill the confusion of mind and situation incident to his awakening.

The play was hardly economical in its use of detectives. There were so many the machinery creaked at times. of course Mr. Moore, the detective from Scotland Yard, had the most business and carried it through with great success. The others played up to him adequately.

Great credit is due Mr. Rapport for the success of the evening's entertainment. He made the most out of a rather crude play. His staging was attractive in general and in detail, and his directing most skillful. He evidently had excellent and effective co-operation from all concerned. The lighting in the play was not difficult, but as all had to be devised out of rather crude material by Mr. Ross he should receive especial commendation for its success.

Some five or six years ago a new curtain was hung in the Gymnasium at a cost of approximately $600. It bore evidence the other night of very rough treatment. Slits have been cut in it from two to six feet long. Of course no one is responsible for this mutilation. It just happened. But it has been discovered long since that around this place eternal vigilance is the price of the protection of property. Evidently those in charge of the gymnasium have relaxed their vigilance. Y.K.W.

CHRISTIAN ASS'N. INSTALLS OFFICERS

Report of Year's Activities Given by Hickcox, Retiring President; Handbook Staff Picked

The new officers of the Middlebury Christian Association were installed at the regular meeting last Wednesday evening. Milo W. Lathrop '26 is to exercise the duties of president of the organization for the coming year. He will be assisted by Harold R. Downey '26 as vice president, Elbert W. Merriam '28 as secretary, and Hilton P. Bicknell '27 who will act as treasurer of the Association.

The retiring president, Edward S. Hickcox '26, outined the work of the past year, pointing out the fine work done by deputation teams sent to Ripton and East Middlebury, the Americanization work under W. Gordon Blackburn '27, which has consisted of instructing four local Italian families in the use of the English language, and the propsed plan for the undertaking of the publication of the 1925-1926 Freshman Handbook.

In connection with the Handbook, Daniel U. Pinder '27, the editor of the publication announced his selection for the editorial and business staffs, who were unanimously elected to the following positions: business and advertising manager, F. S. Irons '27; assitant editors, Richard C. Campbell '27, Pual W. Wolfskehl '27, Celian H. Abbott '28, Marian Laughton '26, and Elizabeth Kelly '26. The staff will begin work at once in order that the handbook may be sent out to the members of the class of 1929 before September first.

After having been postponed three times the room drawings for the men's college are now scheduled for Tuesday, May 20.

WAUBANAKEES PICK SEVEN OF '26 CLASS

Men Prominent In College Activities Honored by Senior Society

At a brief ceremony after chapel last Thursday, seven members of the class of 1926 were pledged to Waubanakee, senior honorary society. This honor, which is one of the highest recognitions that undergraduates can receieve for service rendered to the college, was bestowed upon the members of the Junior class who have been most active in every phase of college work for the past three years. Five of the men have won their "M" in a major sport.

Included among those who were pledged are Dana S. Hawthorne, editor of the Kaleidoscope and prominent debater, Alfred Knowles, president of junior class, John Morris, manager of football, Walter Potter, captain-elect of fooball, R. Laurence Rice, captain-elect of basketball, Joseph Novotny, football and baseball star, and Courtland Whitney, leading man in the Junior Play and another football and baseball player of considerable ability.

Pinder '27 is Elected Ass't. Basketball Manager

Daniel U. Pinder '27 of South Orange, N. J., was elected assistant manager of basketball at the Undergraduate Association meeting held last Tuesday in the gymnasium. Pinder who had the highest rating of the five tryouts polled the most votes on the first balloting, leading Waldo, Babcock, Clement and Shedd. In the second ballot Pinder scored a decisive victory over Waldo. Pinder served last year as manager of the freshman quintet. He has recently been elected editor of next year's handbook. Nominations for officers of the Undergraduate Association were also made at last night's meeting. The results will be announced today.

Dana S. Hawthorne '26, was unanimously elected president of the Wetherell debating club at a meeting held on Monday. Hawthorne, who has been secretary of the organization during the past year, has been unusually active in debating and prize speaking.

Do College Students Insure Their Lives?
The Answer Seems to be "Yes"

Do You Know

That in a test recently made with upper-class students of both sexes in fourteen representative colleges, 140 out of 351 said they carried life insurance policies?

It is significant that 40% of undergraduates have insurance on their lives—a notable advance over what prevailed twenty, or even ten, years ago.

This shows that college students and their parents think life insurance is of considerable use in connection with the educational program.

Parents believe in it because they have something invested for the benefit of their children. Students realize that their lives have an economic value. Taking life insurance is an expression of faith in the value of a college education.

The John Hancock is particularly interested in insuring college men and women and in obtaining college graduates for the personnel of the field staff.

scores went into the books. Papke walked; Whitney was on when Crowley muffed a throw to him. Novotny flied out to Garrity, Conley sacrificed to advance the runners. Then Klevenow took a walk and with bases full, Don Banks spattered his two-bag clout into right to score double. He was at second and Klevenow held third as Hasseltine went out Garrity to Crowley.

A run in the sixth that was squeezed in through a hit-batsman and two infield errors had given Midd her third counter, and these two finished the day's scoring for the Panther. Norwich sweated one run into the finals in the eighth when Sherman led off with a hit, Fitzgerald walked, and Slick Whitney muffed Cusson's drive after Clark had fouled out to Kilbride. Cusson was out as he attempted to gallop to second, however, Klevenow's recovery of his hit being relayed from third to second by Whitney. And then Boardman fielded out and the fireworks were ended. The last inning was a tight ball.

Vermont 7, Middlebury 0

"Frankie" Towne took another crack at Vermont on Saturday at Burlington but had no better luck than on Thursday and the team lost 7-0. The Blue experienced another almost hitless day, collecting but two safe blows from the offering of Burns who occupied the mound for the Green and Gold.

It was a typical Vermont-Middlebury battle but the ten solid smashes that came from the upstate bats far outweighed the two Middlebury hits. In fact not one Middlebury man reached third and only one occupied second. The win gives Vermont a practical certainty of the State championship.

It looked bad even in the first inning when a single and a double greeted Towne. Novotny saved the situation for the instant when he caught a fly from Morse and doubled Chevalier off second. Bradley grounded out to end the inning. After Middlebury had gone out in order in the second Vermont sent the first runs across the plate. Three hits resulted in a like number of runs and Vermont had the lead.

In the fourth the Blue made her only indentation into Burns. Whitney singled and Novotny reached first on an error. Conley flied out and Burns ended the inning by fanning Klevenow and Banks. Again in the fifth Middlebury got a man on base but it was her last one of the game. Hasseltine cracked out a pretty single but died on first when the next three men went out in order.

In the seventh and eighth Vermont collected another three runs all of which were rather unnecessary. In the seventh two singles, an error and a base on balls produced a tally and in the following frame two singles produced two runs.
